

Thermowells

- Machined from solid bar stock
- Various configurations
- fit standard thermometer stem length

A thermowell will protect the instrument from possible damage resulting from process variables. The thermowell makes it possible to remove the instrument for replacement, repair or testing without effecting the system or process media.

ENFM offers thermowells with a threaded, flanged or sanitary process connection.

Please consult ENFM for more information.

